WGGA's new leadership team welcomed

The Winemakers' Federation of Australia has welcomed an announcement that Andrew Weeks takes the reins as Executive Director of Wine Grape Growers Australia (WGGA).

"It is important to have strong leadership in the wine industry and Andrew's experience will serve WGGA well at this important time when our organisations have joined behind a plan to help lift profitability for the sector," said Federation Chief Executive Paul Evans.

Most recently Andrew was Business Manager at Riverland Wine and he additionally has extensive experience in various management roles in the wine sector.

Andrew joins recently appointed Independent Chair at WGGA Joanna (Jo) Andrew, Capital Partner with law firm Mellor Olsson.

"We welcome Andrew to this senior position and look forward to working with him and WGGA's recently appointed Chair Jo Andrew as we bring our organisations more closely together to deliver better results for the Australian wine industry going forward."
